

OLD AGE AND YOUTH IN THE XMAS ARMY OF SHOPLIFTERS

Pretty Young Girls and Venerable Old Women Confess that They Took Goods in Department Stores Without Paying.

WARREN SISTERS IN COURT.

This was a field day for shoplifters in Jefferson Market Police Court. Before Magistrate Cornell were arraigned six women and two men, members of the vanguard of the army of petty pilferers which, at this season, ply their nefarious trade more vigorously than ever.

Detectives, both male and female, from several of the large department stores who appeared as complainants stated in court that from early indications the shoplifting epidemic would be more widespread this season than ever before. Women, as usual, are the chief offenders in this line and two pretty girls, still "in their teens," were in court to answer to the charge of taking $20 worth of trinkets from a Broadway store. The prisoners said that they were Bertha and Anna Warren, who lived at No. 42 West Fifty-second street.

A girl detective testified that she had seen Anna pick up small pieces of jewelry and then walk out of the store after her sister had secreted the plunder in the lining of her coat and muff. When arrested both protested that they were innocent, and after the police found the articles they burst into tears and said they had had to steal to get money to go back to Albany, where they lived.

Pretty Pilferers Penitent.

This morning both girls were penitent and asked that their mother be sent for after they had told the truth about themselves. The mother was horrified to find her children locked up, and said that she could not account for their actions. They had never before been anything but well behaved, and she promised that if they were released they would never again be arrested. In order to allow Mrs. Warren to bring references of the good character of the girls to court, the case was adjourned.

Detective Sergeant Crystal and Sprincker appeared against two finely dressed middle-aged women who said that they were Sarah and Mary Weand, and that they lived in Germantown, a

HIS TOO STRENUOUS LOVE DISPLEASES MISS GUENOT.

William Trench, Diamond Setter, Persists in Following the Jeweller's Daughter, and Even His Second Arrest Has Not Cooled His Ardor.

William Trench, an expert diamond setter, who lives at No. 28 West One Hundred and Fifty-second street, is charged in the action of the police in holding him in a cell because he expresses his infatuation for the young woman of his choice in his own peculiar way.

Although Miss Alice Guenot, the eighteen-year-old daughter of a wealthy jeweller, of No. 79 Halsey street, Brooklyn, has rejected his suit, and on several occasions had him ejected from her house, the persistent wooer still continues to follow wherever she goes. He says that he cannot help it.

Iron bars and the authorities have no terrors for him. He has heretofore been lodged in the Flatbush Insane Asylum for annoying her and threatening her father.

When he was arraigned in the state Avenue court about a month ago on a charge of following Miss Guenot he told the Magistrate that when he was released he could not resist the temptation to pursue the promptings of his heart. He got seventeen days on that occasion.

Sends Her a Letter.

Miss Guenot went to the Ralph Avenue police station last evening and told Capt. Ennis that her strenuous Romeo was on the trail again. She exhibited a note that he had written to her, in which he said he would meet her that night at Ralph Avenue and Halsey street, near her home. In this note he said:

"After many days and nights of bitter anguish spent in trying to forget you, and in vainly endeavoring to cause my heart to cease from loving you, I have come to the conclusion that it is not worth living without you. Alice, I love you more than I can tell, but while I am in the state of mind I think it would be advisable to try another dose of jail cure and perhaps a larger dose than last time. I say one year, would effect a permanent cure and thereby save me from a living death or the dread of the alternative—eternal death."

Detective Frank Foster was sent to meet the young man at the appointed place. The detective found him waiting on the corner, grotesquely attired in a leather automobile suit. He had two pairs of ice skates under his arm, and when questioned said he intended taking his sweetheart skating.

He was arrested and taken to the station-house on a charge of disorderly conduct. He had a large supply of tobacco and pipe with him, in expectation of his arrest, and made no protest. He was arraigned in the Gates Avenue court today, and Magistrate Furlong ordered the charge changed from disorderly conduct to one of sending annoying letters through the mail.

Rebuked by the Court.

"You had you examined once before," said the Magistrate, "and as you have been pronounced sane I must hold you on this charge. Why do you persist in annoying this young woman?" "I can't see any wrong in it," answered the prisoner. "I read in the papers about a man who proposed to a woman sixteen times and was refused, and thrown downstairs in the bargain. He was not arrested for doing that."

Magistrate Furlong held the prisoner in $100 bail for the Special Sessions. When seen by an Evening World reporter in the cell, Trench was calm.

"I don't understand my arrest," said Trench. "I wrote that letter on purpose to see if they would arrest me. I love Miss Guenot and I want to tell her so."

papers about a man who proposed to a woman sixteen times and was refused, and thrown downstairs in the bargain. He was not arrested for doing that."

Magistrate Furlong held the prisoner in $100 bail for the Special Sessions. When seen by an Evening World reporter in the cell, Trench was calm.

"I don't understand my arrest," said Trench. "I wrote that letter on purpose to see if they would arrest me. I love Miss Guenot and I want to tell her so."

HER WISH TO DIE PUZZLES SISTER.

LOUISE HARDING.

Why Miss Louise Harding, of Toronto, Canada, tried to kill herself in a great puzzle to her sister, Miss Emma Harding, of No. 9 West Sixty-fourth street.

"Life is all a mistake. I want to die," is all the girl would say while the surgeons at J. Hood Wright Hospital were trying to save her life. She resolutely refused to say anything further about herself or her death.

"It must be some love affair," said the girl's sister to-day. "Louise had plenty of money, all the freedom she wanted and she should have been without a care in the world. She came down from Toronto to visit me three weeks ago, and after her arrival I noticed she was not herself. She moaned about the house and brooded. When I asked her what was the matter, she said New York was so big and noisy it depressed her."

The addresses she had in her purse were fictitious, I think, but there for the purpose of deluding the police when her body would be found. I fancy Louise had a falling out with some sweetheart at home and came down to visit me to forget about it."

Miss Harding is a remarkably pretty young woman. Her hair is light brown, her eyes large, her features refined and regular. She has the plump figure of an English girl. She was very smartly dressed, wearing a tailor-made walking skirt of expensive material, a white silk shirt waist, black jacket, soft felt walking hat and high tan walking boots with rubber heels.

About 4 o'clock yesterday she wandered into Morningside Park, seated herself on a bench near Cathedral Drive and swallowed the contents of a bottle of carbolic acid. Two Harvard College girls passing through the park saw her and screamed for help. Policemen quickly arrived. She said she was ill, insisted on the doctors letting her alone, but they worked over her for hours and brought her out of danger.

Had Seven Pairs of Gloves.

Mary Mason, forty years old, of No. 6 Livingston street, was charged with stealing seven pairs of high-priced evening gloves, and also a fur box. The prisoner, who was fashionably gowned, admitted her guilt and was held in $500 bail.

Thirty-seventh street, walked examination and was held for trial for stealing a roll of silk which a detective found secreted in her skirt when she was arrested.

J. H. Marks, of No. 112 East Seventy-second street, who was arrested after a fierce tussle by Miss Louise Alexander, a department store detective, did not appear in court to-day, his bondsman stating that he was unable to get there, and his examination was postponed. Marks, who is very distinguished looking, was seen taking two diamond earrings from a counter yesterday and picking them up in the inside of his shirt waist.

Seeing that he was discovered by Miss Alexander, Marks tried to escape. The woman pluckily held onto him, however, until a policeman arrived.

Henry Kline, who was so much in court that he could not tell where he lived, was held for trial for stealing a fan and a seal leather purse.

More than a score of shoplifters who were caught yesterday were not locked up because they returned the stolen goods.

COL. ROE MARRIES HORSE SHOW BELLE.

WEDDING SURPRISES MILLIONAIRE'S FRIENDS.

Friends of Col. William H. Roe, Jr., a young millionaire mill owner, were surprised to-day when it was announced that Miss Marion L. Richardson, the "Belle of the Horse Show," was married to him yesterday afternoon in Albany.

The wedding was not unlooked for, but it was not expected to take place for some time. Like the wedding it was impromptu.

Col. Roe's mother and Miss Richardson's family, with a few other close relatives, were the only witnesses to the wedding, which took place in the Hotel Ten Eyck parlors and was performed by Rev. Dr. John H. Coleman, presiding elder of Glens Falls.

Col. Roe first met Miss Richardson at Saratoga late in September. Later she was his guest at the Horse Show and was carried off all the beauty honors. She is of the blue-blooded Richardson family, a leader in Washington and Baltimore society. She is nineteen years old.

Col. Roe is well known politically and in the financial world. He recently refused the Troy Mayoralty nomination in favor of his associate, William Henry Evans, Senator Murphy, John D. Archbold and Anthony J. Brady.

Col. and Mrs. Roe are passing their honeymoon at Woodlands, near Saratoga.
